PRESENTATION

At the southern end of the wine region of Burgundy, Beaujolais is an essential and famous area worldwide thanks to Beaujolais Nouveau. But beyond this festive wine, it is also a great terroir where the Gamay grape, born here, reveals itself like nowhere else. The granitic soil of the Beaujolais Mountains allows it to express itself in a very specific register and to demonstrate all its qualities. A warmer climate than in the rest of Burgundy also influences the character of the wines, which have an intense fruity flavor and a beautiful suppleness.

WINEMAKING/AGEING

According to the Beaujolais tradition, whole clusters are subjected to a short maceration, under controlled temperature, in order to obtain a maximum of fruity flavors.

TASTING

Deep purple red color. The nose is elegant, with aromas of red and exotic fruits and a beautiful liveliness. The palate is full and well-balanced. This Beaujolais-Villages is typical of Gamay, both fruity and full-bodied.

SERVING

Serve at 14°C.

FOOD PAIRINGS

It will perfectly accompany simple dishes such as poultry, red meat, charcuterie, and cheese.
